

ONLY $20,000 LEFT MARCELLUS DODGE

Many Peculiar Provisions In The Will of Millionaire Marcellus Hartley.

Although the aged millionaire, Marcellus Hartley, left a letter asking that his grandson, Marcellus Hartley Dodge, be suitably provided for, in his will filed for probate to-day, at the last law-fall moment, he leaves the young man only $20,000, to be paid him on his twenty-first birthday, which will occur next month.

In spite of this the grandson, already a millionaire under the will of his other grandfather, William E. Dodge, though still a student in Columbia, has taken his grandfather's place in many directions.

The will filed to-day is dated March 25, 1881. Young Dodge at the time was only a babe in arms. In the will his mother is spoken of as if she was a single woman.

The witnesses to the will, about which there has been much mystery, are W. O. Ross, of No. 215 East Tenth street, and Louis Keller, of No. 337 West Twenty-third street.

Text of the Will.
After all my lawful debts are paid and discharged, I give and bequeath to my beloved wife, Fannie Chester White Hartley, the use of my family residence, No. 232 Madison avenue, together with all the furniture, books and gold and silver plate therein; also the use of the country seat in Orange Mountains, which we have occupied for two years together, with all the furniture therein. Also the use of my horses, carriages and appurtenances—all of the above so long as she remains my widow.

"The remainder of my estate shall remain in trust with my executors, and be disposed of as hereinafter provided, viz:

Some of the Provisions.
"From the income of such trust shall be paid:

"First, to my wife, Fannie C. W. Hartley, the sum of $10,000 yearly, in quarterly instalments.

"Second, to each of my daughters, Grace and Helen Hartley, the sum of $5,000 yearly, in quarterly instalments.

"Third, any remaining income from said trust shall be divided equally between my wife and two daughters share and share alike.

"Should my wife marry again the use of the house shall revert to my daughters, Grace and Helen, and in lieu thereof my executors shall pay to her the sum of $20,000 cash.

"Further in lieu of the yearly sum of $10,000 above mentioned, I direct that my executors shall pay her the sum of $10,000 yearly.

"Should either of my daughters marry I direct my executors to pay her the sum of $10,000 cash.

"When my grandson, Marcellus Hartley Dodge, becomes twenty-one years of age, I authorize my executors, with the advice and consent of my wife and daughters, to pay to him the sum of $20,000 cash.

Some Odd Requests.
"When my wife is sixty years of age she shall receive $100,000 cash. When my daughters become thirty-five years of age they shall each receive $100,000 cash.

"The remainder of my estate shall, when my wife attains to the age of seventy, be divided between my daughters share and share alike.

"Likewise I make, constitute and approve George W. Hubbard, Enoch L. Fancher to be executors of this my last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills by me made."

SUSAN TRINOR HAS BEEN ARRESTED FOR 125TH TIME.

Love for Liquor Responsible for Remarkable Record of a Good Cook.

Susan Trinor, forty-eight years old, was arrested yesterday for the one hundred and twenty-fifth time in Hoboken, and to-day was sentenced by Recorder Stanton to thirty days in the County Jail. The charge against her was drunkenness.

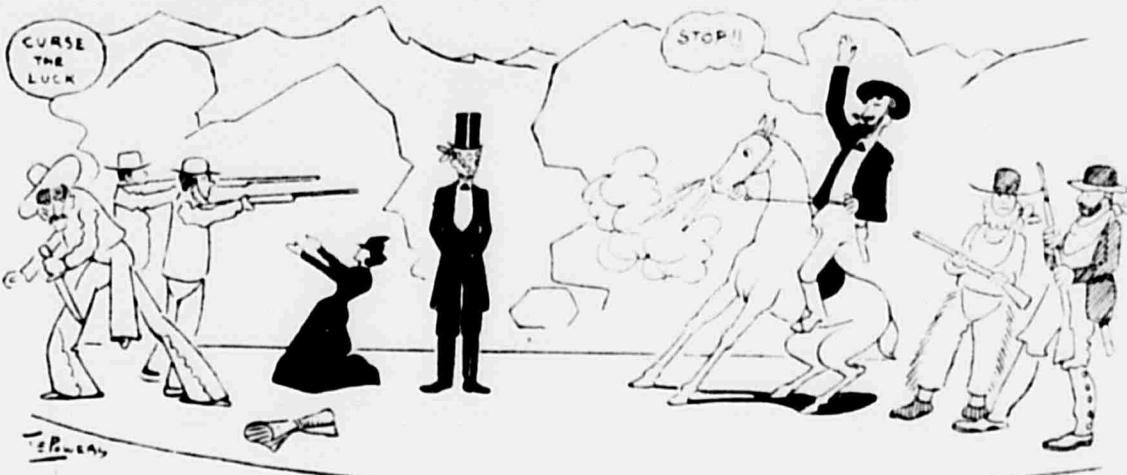

The police say she has also been arrested many times in New York and other places on the charge of drunkenness. She is said to hold the championship of New Jersey in the matter of arrests. She was first taken into custody thirty years ago by Patrolman John Flattery, who is now a sergeant of police. Flattery had just been appointed, and it was his first arrest. She told the police that she had been a cook in Bellevue Hospital, Manhattan, but was laid off a week as she had been vaccinated, and it "took" so well that it had incapacitated her for work. She was to have gone back to New York to-day, but the old love of liquor overcame her and she fell by the wayside.

She is said to be always welcome in the county jail, as she is one of the best cooks who come to that institution.

ARTIST POWERS GOES TO THE THEATRE.

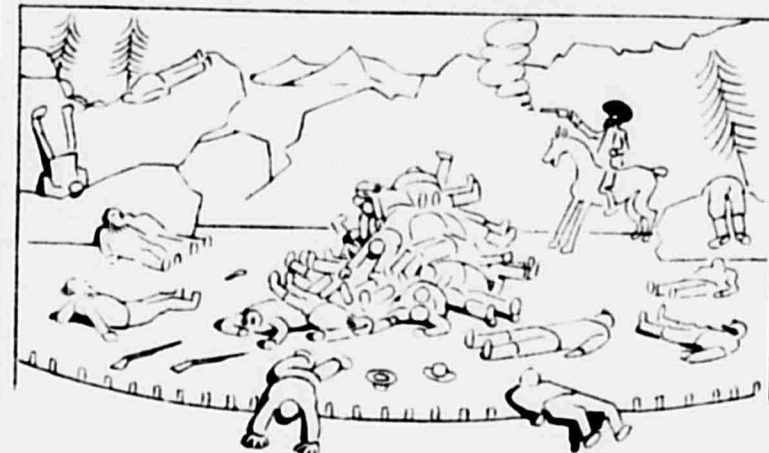

HE SHOWS SOME THRILLING SCENES IN "JESSE JAMES."

Gov. Crittenden held up by the James gang. Buck Williams, in hare-lip tones: "If you have ever prayed in your life, pray now, for it is your last chance. You are going to die. Hank Brady, bind and gag the prisoner." (Hisses from the gallery.) "Ready, men! Take aim, and let your bullets find his cowardly heart." (Great confusion in the gallery; bouncer is compelled to lay for order.)

"When I count three, fire—one, two"—the sound of horses' hoofs can be heard in the wings. A man approaches on horseback. It is Jesse James, the bandit king.

"Stop! What means this? I've been a hardened man in my day, but I have never shot a man down in cold blood." (Deafening cheers, and some one in the gallery swats Buck Williams in the neck with a pair of corsets.)

End of first, second and third acts. All the characters are killed, but return to life at the beginning of every act. "Buck" Williams, hare-lip villain, is shot down six times, and keeps coming back for more until a knife in Jesse's hand lays him low.

Calamity Jane, "true to the core" (getting tired of ranch life)—I'm getting sick of this kind of life. I had a husband once. It's a long story. They caught him dealing from the bottom and they plugged him. I loved him, but somehow he just couldn't tote square with men.

Boy in gallery, spying her knives—Holy smoke! Get on to the can-openers!

GIRLS ARE AFTER THIS POLICEMAN.

HE HAS TO USE SNOWSHOES BECAUSE HE'S SINGLE.

Prudden said "I'll have to wed," and now he dodges marriage brokers.

Policeman Prudden, living at No. 68 Grand street, is doing duty in Staten Island because Commissioner Partridge thinks the unmarried men of the force should be given assignments farthest away from home.

As Prudden has a heat covering six miles of bleak moorland, he has spent most of his time this week on snowshoes. He told his friends that his only salvation was to get married, and the news got abroad in his neighborhood.

Prudden is now dodging marriage brokers. It is the custom of east-side brides to bring their husbands a dowry and the brokers have gone as high as $1,500 in tempting Prudden into a matrimonial bargain.

Why did YOU quit Coffee?

It probably comes to every thoughtful person at times that there are plenty of common, mediocre people, and that if one determines to, he or she can press to the front, pass the crowd, and win position, fame and gold. It is largely a matter of determination and health. Many a determined character with brilliant possibilities is held back by ill-health. Some find that bright, keen thoughts refuse to come to their brains, and wonder why.

The kind of brain work that makes successful professional men makes heavy draughts on the filling of the minute nerve cells of the body, said filling being composed of a grayish sort of material which must be replaced day by day or the brain and other parts of the body will not act properly.

Coffee is a hidden but powerful enemy to one's progress in life. Its subtle, narcotic poison weakens heart, interferes with digestion and has a definite and destructive effect on the nervous system. People who are content to load themselves with impediments to progress, who refuse to supply body with food and drink of the kind needed to make up for the daily disintegration of nerve and tissue, must stand aside in the race for pre-eminence.

The ones who are properly fed will surely win the laurels.

"YOU'RE NOT TONY," CRIES REAL TONY.

"MILLIONAIRE BOOTBLACK" WON'T HAVE HIS NAME USED.

Sues Former Pupil in the Gentle Art of Shining Shoes.

"Tony," the millionaire bootblack, has sued a former pupil, now a rival, to prevent him from doing business under his name and the case is being tried before Justice Clarke in the Supreme Court.

The story of Antonio L. Aste reads like a romance. Fresh from sunny Italy, a bright-eyed, wide-awake boy ten years ago, with nothing but a pair of quick, deft hands, he began life as a bootblack in the land of the free.

To-day he is at the head of a corporation, "The Tony Shoe Cleaning Establishment," with a dozen sumptuous stands in big office buildings and employing nearly one hundred men and boys. He is worth a quarter of a million dollars and is a figure in Wall street and on the turf.

In his complaint asking for an injunction against Adrussenza "Tony" says that he established the place of "Tony the Bootblack" in the Produce Exchange in 1886, and has since established many other stands.

Says Tony: "John Adrussenza, in 1897, at his shoe-cleaning establishment in the Welles Building, close by the Produce Exchange, willfully and knowingly conducted his place as 'Tony the Bootblack,' and did issue cards (see Exhibit A) so describing himself, such descriptions being calculated to deceive the public into the belief that I was running the establishment."

Adrussenza says his name is not "John," but "Tony," and he has as good a right to use it in business as any one.

TIFFANY LAID AWAY.
Favorite Hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," Sung at Funeral.

The funeral of Charles L. Tiffany took place this morning in the Madison Square Presbyterian church. Dr. Parkhurst conducted a simple service. The family had requested that no flowers be sent, but the employees of the Paris store and those of the New York store had already sent handsome wreaths, and these were given notice. But three hymns were sung, one being "Lead Kindly Light," which was Mr. Tiffany's favorite. The others were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Crossing the Bar." of Tennessee. The interment was at Greenwood.

UNDERTAKER EXPECTED A PERMIT AT CEMETERY GATE

Disappointed, but He Buried Miss Henriquez—May Be Criminally Prosecuted.

Coroner's Physician William P. Wood was surprised to learn when he went to the handsome dwelling, No. 80 Halsey street, Brooklyn, this morning to make an examination regarding the death of Miss Sarah Irene Henriquez, thirty-eight years old, that the body had been buried in Beth Israel Cemetery, although no burial permit had been issued by the Health Department.

J. Edward Winterbottom, a Manhattan undertaker, who had been engaged by the family to direct the funeral of Miss Henriquez, sent an assistant, just before the funeral procession started, to the Health Department for a burial certificate. He carried a death certificate made out and signed by Dr. George Ostrander, of No. 81 Green avenue, and he was to meet the funeral procession at the entrance to the cemetery.

Dr. Sylvester J. Byrne, Registrar of Records, saw that the cause of death as given in Dr. Ostrander's certificate included congestion of the brain among other disorders. As suggestion of the real cause of death by violence, and as there was no statement of what caused it in the case, Dr. Byrne refused a funeral permit and referred the case to the coroner.

The undertaker did not find his assistant at the cemetery gate, but he went on and buried the body.

Dr. Byrne to-day referred the case to the Corporation Counsel with a request that the undertaker and the cemetery authorities be prosecuted criminally.

Daughter of Rich Merchant.
Miss Henriquez was the only daughter of a wealthy retired law merchant.

Dr. Ostrander says he considers his certificate of death as sufficiently clear. He says the disorders from which his patient suffered were caused by cataplexy contracted three years ago as result of the escape of some gas into the house in Manhattan in which the Henriquez family then lived.

FRAWLEY SET FREE ON BRIBERY CHARGE.

MAGISTRATE BRANN RULES THERE IS "NO CASE."

Underman Dietz Held to Allow of Producing Further Testimony.

Magistrate Brann, in the Essex Market Court, to-day ordered the discharge of Tammany leader James J. Frawley and granted a further hearing in the case of Alderman John J. Dietz.

Frawley and Dietz were arrested several days ago by Supt. McCullagh's deputies on the charge of election frauds. They were granted a hearing and then the Magistrate reserved his decision. The latter was announced this morning.

In ordering Frawley released the Magistrate said that no case had been made out against him. In the case of Dietz, Deputy Attorney-General Egan asked permission to submit additional testimony, and the request was granted. The hearing will take place to-morrow morning in the Essex Market Court, where Magistrate Brann will sit.

HIS HABIT TO SAVE LIVES IN ICY RIVER.

DECKHAND PLUNGES IN A SECOND TIME.

Steers Comrade Through Frozen Cakes to Place of Rescue—Unconcerned at Heroism.

For the second time within a week Joseph Murphy, a tugboat deckhand of Brooklyn, jumped into the icy waters of the East River to-day and saved a life.

Richard White, a deckhand, fell overboard at Quay street, in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn, this morning. He fell among large pieces of broken ice and was drowning when Murphy jumped in and helped him to the side of a pier, where others pulled him out.

White was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital suffering from shock. It is feared that pneumonia may develop. Murphy seemed none the worse for his gold bath.

ICE PUT FERRY OUT OF BUSINESS.

BOATS OF 39TH ST., BROOKLYN, ROUTE TIED UP.

One Which Went to Rescue Another Found Itself Also Imprisoned.

Ice played mischief to-day with the boats on the ferry between Thirty-ninth street, Brooklyn, and Whitehall street, New York. The ferry had to suspend business and thousands of residents of South Brooklyn were forced to make the trip across the city and over the Bridge.

The line is operated with two double-deckers, the South Brooklyn and the West Brooklyn. During the night the West Brooklyn broke away from the slip in Brooklyn, drifted into the stream and became wedged in this morning.

When she remained until this morning, the South Brooklyn was sent to the rescue with a double set of crews. The South Brooklyn made fast a line to her sister boat and hauled away in an endeavor to drag her free.

Ice does were drifting in on the swiftly moving tide, and soon the rescuing boat found herself a prisoner, surrounded by an ice island. A crew was sent aboard the West Brooklyn and the engine started. The big screws churned the waters and smashed the thick ice cakes in the immediate vicinity, but the boats were caught securely and there was nothing to do but wait for the tide to change and carry away the Arctic layers.
